

Laknath Ashwin De Silva

I am a second-year PhD student in the Department of Biomedical Engineering at Johns Hopkins University where I am fortunate to be advised by Dr. Joshua Vogelstein, Dr. Pratik Chaudhari (UPenn), and Dr. Carey E. Priebe (JHU). I aspire to work towards reducing the gap between machine and natural intelligences. My research primarily focuses on building deep learning and statistical machine learning methods for out-of-distribution (OOD) generalization and continually learning systems. Additionally, I have a keen interest in computer vision, geometric deep learning, signal processing, and biomedical data science.
